Importance of Church Family

I have written about this before; and after thinking about it, I decided to choose this topic again. Life is a lot different than it was when I shared my thoughts on this a few years ago. The need for Church family has not changed. In fact, the need has increased. The closer you get to people, the more you want to be with them and then realize you need to be with them.

I don't dwell on the past or care to relive it. Most of my adult life was spent alone. I chose to isolate myself from everything and everyone. No one wanted to be around me and I couldn't blame them. Who needed them, anyway? All I wanted was to be left alone. My problems with alcohol and my behavior chased a lot of people away, relatives and longtime friends walked away, and I did not care. Not until I put the bottle down and picked up the Bible. Then everything changed. I discovered that I really do need people. That I could be a friend and even have a friend or two.

“Two people are better than one, for they can help each other succeed.” (Ecclesiastes 4:9)

Today, I need to be around those I call family. Today, I have found myself with a great sense of purpose. This newsletter is a big deal to me; The same with photography and video; has purpose.

Within the church family we pray for and support each other. To me, it is so important to be “plugged in” somewhere with people all around you who care. Where you can feel the love and know that you are needed.
